HAPPY ARIZONA STATEHOOD DAY!

Did you know?

Arizona became the 48th state on Valentine's Day, February 14, 1912, making it the last of the contiguous United States admitted to the Union. Arizonans wanted statehood long before 1912, but rejected a proposal from the U.S. Senate that Arizona and New Mexico territories combine and be admitted as one state. Arizonans were jubilant when President Taft's signature made statehood official, making Arizona known as the "Valentine State."
